New County Board Doubts Legality Of Session; to Organize Saturday

The new Saline County Board of Supervisors met in full numbers this morning but did not convene its organization meeting because there was some doubt as to the legality of the session.

Instead, the board will go into its organization meeting Saturday at 9 a. m.

With all 22 members present County Clerk Don B. Garrison declared "this meeting was called for the purpose to reorganize the board but there is the problem of the legality of it."

He said that the petition asking the clerk to call the meeting must contain the names of eight board members but that there were only the signatures of seven members qualified to sign the petition.

Two Unqualified to Sign
He stated that there were nine names on the petition asking the clerk to call the meeting but that two of them were of newly-elected supervisors who had not qualified at the time.

"These two members signed the petition April 4 and signed their oath April 6," he stated. "It's my fault—not theirs."
Garrison stated he was not going to assume the responsibility of the meeting without the legal advice of the state's attorney, that State's Attorney Robert V. Wilson was in Springfield today.

Howard Patterson, past board chairman, said that he, A. K. Gates and William Alfred Smith, two other members, questioned the petition last Saturday, then suggested that County Judge Trafton Dennis be summoned to enter the discussion.

Judge Dennis said he believed that if the parties qualified by

In another county court case today George Rude, 19-year-old Hanco youth, was fined $100 and costs upon his pleas of guilty to a reckless driving charge. He was arrested at Eldorado by State Police Roy A. Lane.

Blast Believed By Jet Crashing Sound Barrier

A blast this morning accompanied by strong vibrations that rattled windows, opened doors and caused at least one person to be knocked down was believed to have been caused by a jet airplane crashing the sound barrier.

The incident, which sounded like a big explosion, was heard all over Harrisburg, in Carrier Mills and Stonefort around 8:30 a. m.

The Harrisburg police department and the Harrisburg Daily Register office received numerous calls and police made a check of persons who could have been doing blasting.

C. L. Blackman of Stonefort, reported that he and some other persons heard and felt the blast strongly as a jet plane was spotted speeding through the sky.

Mrs. Les Harrison, who lives on South McKinley avenue a block south of the high school, said she was knocked down by the jar as she was washing windows on her front porch.

SII Film of Southern Illinois at Lions' Ladies' Night

"Little Egypt," a recently completed movie featuring southern Illinois, was shown at the Lions Ladies' Night meeting Monday evening.

The film, in beautiful color, was produced by Southern Illinois Inc. and should be a great influence in SII's attempts to attract industry and tourists to this part of the state.

Southern Illinois's good farm land, its natural resources of coal, oil, spar and other minerals and the scenic attractions shared equally in the production.

And Southern Illinois University, with its many-sided program to aid in the development of Little Egypt, was featured.

Among the better known scenic spots were Giant City Park, Cave-in-Rock and Old Stone Face.

William Farley, active in publicizing southern Illinois and a member of SII from Harrisburg, was a guest of the Lions club and showed the movie.

George Henley was officially welcomed as a new member of the Lions.

Flood Threat Begins Easing in Southern Illinois

By United Press

The flood threat in Illinois eased Tuesday as fair, cool weather replaced heavy rains and snows which had swollen rivers and streams.

The Big Muddy River started falling at Murphysboro and an observer there said "barring more rain, the worst appears to be over."

Flood waters of the Big Muddy surrounded the town's filter and water plants, and employees went to work in boats. However, a filter plant spokesman said the river would have to rise an additional three feet to disrupt operations there.

The river level fell 1/2 of an inch since Monday.

Thirteen families at Murphysboro had been made homeless by the high waters. The Jackson County Red Cross chapter was providing food, clothing and fuel to stricken families.

Wabash Rises

On the eastern side of the state, the Wabash River rose about a foot Monday night, inundating additional lowland acreage and forcing some oil wells across the river in Indiana to close down. More than 1,000 acres was flooded in the area and a few families in rural sections had fled their homes.

The Wabash was expected to crest at between 22 and 22 1/2 feet at Mount Carmel Friday. Observers said a crest of 24 feet might force some evacuations in Mount Carmel.

At Shawneetown, where the Ohio River is 18 inches above flood stage, 5,000 acres were inundated. The river is expected to climb to 37 feet Tuesday and authorities feared a 10-mile stretch of land would be under water.

Shawneetown itself is protected by levees, but lowland areas near the town are without defense against the turbulent water.

An estimated 5,000 acres were under water in Pope County and some livestock was isolated in pasture lands.

Blonde 'Mystery Woman' Says She Knows Nothing of Banker's Murder

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP)—Authorities Tuesday said they are satisfied that "mystery woman" Ruth Weidner knew nothing about the murder of Chicago banker Leon Marcus.

The attractive blonde came out of seclusion late Monday to give a statement to Chicago detective Sgt. Marshall Carroll, who was sent here to find her.

"I'm satisfied that she cooperated and did not know anything about the death of Marcus or his business dealings," Carroll said.

In Chicago, Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor ordered a special 150-man police detail to search for clues in the week-old gang-style slaying of the 61-year-old banker.

The discovery of Miss Weidner ended a nationwide search for the former dice girl, who admitted she had known Marcus for 20 years and frequently went under the name of "Mrs. Ruth Marcus."

Carroll said the woman told him she could shed no light on the motive for Marcus' slaying.

"She said she thought it might have been robbery, but that she actually knew nothing," Carroll said.

Miss Weidner, 40, met Carroll in the office of her attorney, Marvin Johnson, and in the presence of a court reporter.

Miss Weidner told Carroll she talked with Marcus by telephone the morning of the day he was killed.

"She said he appeared carefree and happy and was talking about coming out here again and doing some work to fix up the house on Portland street," Carroll said. Marcus owned three apartments here.

Miss Weidner said she last saw Marcus March 10 when he returned to Chicago after a two week visit here.

$29.7 Million for SIU

Schools Get Largest Share Of Increases in State Budget

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Grade and high schools and state colleges and universities got the "largest share by far" of the state spending increases proposed in Gov. William G. Stratton's budget.

The governor recommended that the Legislature appropriate a total of $29,705,984 for state aid to schools to maintain the state-local spending level of $200 per pupil per year.

This amounts to an increase of $1 million dollars over current school aid spending. The current school aid appropriation is 201 million dollars, but 7 million of this has not been spent and was added to the increase for the coming budget period.

Stratton also included in his budget a School Problems Commission recommendation for a 10-million-dollar state revolving fund from which school districts which have exhausted their bonding power could borrow to meet their building needs "without federal aid."

Stratton vetoed such a revolving fund last legislative session. Also for schools, Stratton recomommended $4,400,000 for the school lunch program over the next two years, the same amount as appropriated for the current period; eight million dollars a year for state aid to special education for handicapped and retarded children; six million a year for state aid for school bus transportation and about five million for two years for vocational education.

Stratton asked for an increase of about 19 million dollars for the University of Illinois. The U. of I. would get about 104 million dollars for operating costs, compared with about 89 million in the current spending period, and about 16 million dollars for building and improvements, compared with about 12 million in current appropriations.

Southern Illinois University would get a total of $29,705,984 in the new budget, including about 23 million dollars for operating costs and about 6 million for capital improvements.

This amounted to an increase of about eight million dollars over current SIU appropriations.

Stratton rejected a School Problems Commission recommendation that the $100 per pupil state aid to junior colleges be doubled. He budgeted $2,250,000 for aid to junior colleges, the same amount they got in current appropriations.

Pays Tribute to Late D. B. McGehee At Rotary Meeting

A tribute to the late D. B. McGehee was paid at the Monday noon Rotary meeting by Curtis G. Small, editor of The Daily Register and guest speaker.

The dedication of the meeting to the former Harrisburg business man and civic leader did not spring from any special occasion, but rather from the close acquaintance with the speaker, who had been asked to furnish the program. Herman Barnett Jr., Daily Register circulation manager, was program chairman.

Mr. Small generalized on what makes a great man, spoke of Harrisburg men and former men who were recognized in other areas and led a group discussion on what constitutes a "big" man.

A part of Mr. McGehee's scrap books, which he had accumulated over a period of 40 years, and which he left as a legacy to Mr. Small, were distributed for interested examination by the Rotarians.

G. C. Benson, a member of the delegation which recently met with Governor Stratton concerning a proposed lake project, reported that prospects were very good for receiving the lake if land-owners will sell at a reasonable price the necessary land for the lake.

Governor Warns He Will Veto Any Increases

Promises Huge Spending Program Without Tax Hike

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Gov. William G. Stratton Tuesday proposed a "no fat, no frills" state budget of $2,244,091,350 for the next two years — the first two-billion-dollar budget in Illinois history and 466 million dollars over the current spending program.

The governor's budget message to the General Assembly called for increases of 31 million dollars for state aid to schools, 20 million for public welfare, 7 million for 500 additional state policemen for his highway safety program and 22 million for pay raises for state employees; and a record-smashing 651-million-dollar highway program.

But Stratton solemnly warned the legislators he would wield a "vigilant veto pen" against any effort on their part to fatten the budget with increases that are "enticing" but "beyond our means."

Stratton also told a joint session of the Legislature it was his "pleasant opportunity" to report the huge budget could be handled without any tax increase.

In fact, said Stratton, current tax rates will leave the state with a cushion of about five million dollars not committed in the budget.

Most of the 466-million-dollar increase in the budget over the current spending period was in federal funds, and most of the new federal money was for highways under the new interstate highway program.

"Balances the Needs"

The total budget figure included $1,700,575,418 in state money and $543,515,932—almost 20 per cent of the total—in federal money.

Stratton said the budget contained "no fat, no frills," but that it "satisfies demands, balances the needs of our citizens and holds the line on taxes in these days of rising costs."

He said he had chopped out "half a billion dollars" from budget requests to meet the "twin problems of cost and resources" and that the budget was "carefully conceived, cautiously balanced and sufficient to meet the problems of a growing populous state."

Double Spending In 10 Years

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Gov. William G. Stratton's proposed budget of $2,244,091,350 for 1957-59 will mean almost a doubling of state spending within the past 10 years.

It will also mean the first two-billion-dollar budget in Illinois history, only 10 years after Illinois spending passed the billion-dollar mark. The figures include federal aid funds, particularly for highway construction.

Total appropriation made by the Legislature 10 years ago for the years 1947-49 were $1,435,032,025, up from only $788,797,774 for the years 1945-47. The two-year budget has been climbing almost steadily since then.

The total for 1949-51 was $1,342,985,383, but jumped to $1,473,012,043 in 1951-52, and passed the billion and a half mark in 1953-55, when the budget added up to $1,601,845,049.

The current two-year appropriations, which were meant to last until next June 30, totaled about $1,750,000,000, including some emergency money voted by the current Legislature.

Unions in Beck's Shadow

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

When Teamster Boss Dave Beck took the protection of the Constitution in refusing to give a Senate committee vital information, he may have acted within his rights.
But at the same time he may have forfeited whatever shreds of sympathy were left to him.

With or without his testimony,
the special Senate committee studying rackets in labor and industry says it has ample evidence with which to piece out the shocking story of Beck's misuse of his union's funds.

The Internal Revenue Service is examining his financial records to determine if there are any irregularities in his income tax returns.
Should there prove to be, the Constitution will not save him from prosecution.

The action and comments of top AFL-CIO leaders, including President George Meany and Vice President Walter Reuther, indicate that Beck is now beyond the pale of decency in the labor movement's upper echelons. It is clear they believe he has done severe damage to the whole cause of organized labor.

The power to oust Beck and such others as Jimmy Hoffa and Frank Brewster from office rests with the Teamsters' rank and file. Thus far there have been considerable mutterings of revolt, but also here and there some surprising complacency in the light of the disclosures.

Perhaps enough has already been told, however, to put the standing of the Teamsters Union itself in serious jeopardy—in the eyes of both labor and the public—if it does not act to clean its own house.

Senator McClellan of Arkansas,
chairman of the special committee,
says Beck has not properly accounted for at least $320,000. It is fair that he should give his version of his affairs—if he ever will talk. But obviously a union that does not seek and get a satisfactory accounting is bound to be suspect itself. And the same goes if the answers are unsatisfactory and it fails to demand his ouster.

Certain huge unions, the Teamsters included, are so placed that they can exercise a stranglehold on vital parts of the nation's economy. Often they are undemocratically controlled by entrepreneurs, and occasionally these are allied with criminal elements.
Large union treasuries may be diverted to corrupt purposes.

Neither labor's honest leadership nor its rank and file nor the nation's citizenry can tolerate such misuse of money and power. Beck stands in the limelight today. But the task at hand is bigger than "getting Beck." It is the freeing of both labor and industry from the evidently broad grip of racketeers, spoilers and underworld managers.

Dogs and Catapults

The Russians have taken a picture of a little dog they say has traveled in rockets to outer space and seems to enjoy it.

This is something of a twist for them, since for a long time the word "dog" was an epithet applied with bitter force and regularity to capitalists and their followers.

Now, evidently, the "running dog" is a thing of the past, and Fidovich has a place of esteem in Russian eyes.

Though skepticism is useful in measuring any Soviet statement, we need not question the practical possibility of sending a dog aloft to stratospheric heights and beyond. We have sent mice and monkeys 80 miles above the earth.

There'll be time enough for heavy doubting when the Russians try to tell us that their canine Captain Video eats his meals off a flying saucer.

An expert of the Koppers Co.
predicts the first economical gasification of coal will result from successful development of a high temperature nuclear reactor using a gas cooling agent and ceramicclad uranium elements.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Texas Is Watching To See Whether Its New Senator Becomes Lyndon Johnson Satellite; Yarborough Has Knife-Scars From Lyndon's Pating
Him On Back; Hitler Admirer
Teams Up With Hitler Refugee.

WASHINGTON. — Big question-mark in the minds of senators, as newly elected Ralph Yarborough of Texas arrives to take the oath of office, is whether he will become part of the Lyndon Johnson team.

Yarborough is the man who gives the tall and charming Lyndon that continued crucial one-vote margin by which he can go on breathing as Senate majority leader. But the big question in the minds of Texans and senators is: Will Lyndon control that one vote?

Lyndon has kept very hush-hush
how he voted in the Texas election. But it is not hush-hush that he didn't raise a finger to help elect the man who gave him that one-vote margin. Some signs, furthermore, point to the probability that he supported Yarborough's chief rival, Democratic Congressman Martin Dies. For, down at Laredo, where Mayor J.
E. Martin, Jr., is the chief remaining Texas boss, Martin announced for Dies. Martin makes few moves politically without checking with Lyndon.

Aside from this, Yarborough has had Lyndon's effective opposition for some time in Texas. And few men can be more effective than the astute majority leader of the Senate. When Yarborough was running for governor of Texas last year against Senator Price Daniel, Lyndon maneuvered a deal with Clyde Ellis, head of the Rural Electrification co-ops and valiant battler for public power. Price Daniel would vote for the Niagara power bill in the Senate, he promised, if the REA men in Texas would support Daniel for governor.

Sure enough, Daniel voted for the Niagara power bill, and the REA boys in Texas plugged for Daniel. Daniel finally nosed out

Yarborough by a scant 3,547 votes, and that margin might have been the result of REA activity.

The new senator from Texas knows this. So he owes no debt to his fellow senator, Lyndon Johnson.

YARBOROUGH'S KNIFE-SCARS

Lyndon also waged a battle against liberal Democrats at the Fort Worth Democratic convention last fall, and caused a bitter rift in the party when his henchmen refused to seat several hundred loyalist Democrat delegates.
Mrs. Frankie Randolph of Houston, Democratic national committeewoman, was among those who sat all day in a cawbarn with the entire Democratic delegation from Harris county (Houston), biggest in the state, and one of the few which went down the line for Adlai Stevenson in 1952 and 1956. Yet they were barred from the Democratic state convention because Lyndon Johnson didn't like them.

Instead, Johnson played ball with Gov. Shivers, who twice worked hard for Eisenhower, and with governor-elect Price Daniel, who in 1952 worked hard for Ike and in 1956 didn't work for anyone except himself.

These loyalist Democrats, kicked around by Lyndon, were all Yarborough boosters. They are the people who got out and beat the bushes last week, and who, despite all the big oil money for Dies and Hutcheson, despite the opposition of practically all Texas newspapers, elected their man. So they'll be watching him when he comes to Washington—to see whether he is charmed by Lyndon.

"Ralph Yarborough," said one of them, "has so many knife-scars in his back where Lyndon has patted him that he'll never fall for his charm."

The Texas loyalists should not,
however, underestimate Lyndon.
He has fought valiant battles on some issues. He has a shrewd capacity for picking able senators and wooing them. He recognized the ability of Sen. Hubert Humphrey (Minn.) and has partially wooed him into the Johnson camp.
He recognized the abilities of Sen.
Dick Neuberger of Oregon and has made him a sometime Lyndon satellite. Mike Mansfield of Montana has become a complete Lyndon satellite.

So all the Senate will be watching the new senator from Texas.
And most of Texas will also be watching to see whether it has two senators or just one.

HITLER FRIEND AND REFUGEE

Sen. Frank Lausche of Ohio is starting a significant probe of the Securities and Exchange Commission for its failure to protect the public in certain stock manipulations and proxy fights. One is the Leopold Silberstein battle to take over the Fairbanks, Morse Co., of Chicago.

Most interesting human aspect of this is the fact that one member of the Morse family, Charles Morse, has deserted his brother
Robert and gone over to Silberstein, thus forming an alliance between a man who fled from Hitler and a man who paid tribute to Hitler.

Silberstein fled Germany when Hitler came into power and has been in this country less than 10 years. In that time he has built up a financial empire.

Charles Morse, who has now teamed up with him, went to Nuernberg in October 1938 at about the time Hitler had taken over part of Czechoslovakia. On his return he paid tribute to Hitler.

"Absolutely wonderful, the things that party has done for Germany," was his description of the Nazi party to ship reporters on returning to New York October 21. "You can regiment happiness, but you can't regiment happiness, and those people are happy."

Mrs. Morse said she felt "honored at being invited to celebrate Nazi Party day" at Nuernberg.
Among other things, Sen. Lausche will investigate the pattern of secret Swiss deals by which Sil-berstein sought to control Fairbanks.

CROCODILE TEARS
When Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater voted against tax relief for small business the other day, certain crocodile tears last December were forgotten.

In a press release issued Dec.
23, 1956, Goldwater declared: "The major source of trouble for small business today is the inequitable tax structure."

On March 27, however, he voted against the 8 per cent cut in the tax on small corporations.

Social Security Deadline April 15 For Ministers

Ministers who wish to have their

Those ministers who had $400 or more of net earnings either in 1955 or 1956, any part of which was derived from the performance of service as a minister, will never be able to take credit for their income as a minister unless the Ministers desiring to complete

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; he breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear asunder. — Ps. 46:9.

Bluntschli the writer on political science said that war was the most profitable of all enterprises and that was taught in German universities. Christianity has taken all profit out of successful wars.
Now we help defeated enemies to their feet.

Miss Brenda Sue Pyle Weds David Harrison Saturday

Miss Brenda Sue Pyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Pyle of Carrier Mills RFD 1 and David Harrison, son of Mrs. Winnie Harrison of 627 Barnett street, were married by Rev. Earl Vaughn at his home in Dorrisville, Saturday at six o'clock.

The bride wore a white jeweled sheath dress and white shoes. Her corsage was of blue carnations.

The bride was a senior at the Carrier Mills high school and the bridegroom a student at SIU.

Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Miller. Mr. Miller is a student at SIU.

Mr. Harrison is employed by the Limerick finance company located at Paris, Ky., and the bridal couple went to their home there on Sunday.

"Women of Illinois" Woman's Club Subject

Women of Illinois who have made history in politics, literature, social service and are given the subjects of a program given at the Woman's club yesterday. Mrs. F. S. Gray was program chairman and created the atmosphere of just pride in the achievements of Illinois women, past and present, with a series of thumbnail biographies which set the mood for the program.

Mrs. E. Bishop Hill called the meeting to order and Mrs. Ray Johnson led in the pledging of allegiance to the flag. Mrs. Hughie Walker read the minutes of the March 11 meeting which were approved, as was the treasurer's report presented by Mrs. Hudson Mugge. Important calendar dates were brought to the attention of the group, especially the district convention which will be held at the Presbyterian church on April 23.

Reservations for the luncheon for this convention should be made with Mrs. Hudson Mugge and must be made by April 18. Since the Harrisburg Woman's club is the hostess club, members are urged to set the day aside for attendance at the meeting and a large representation is expected. Tickets for the luncheon cost $1.25 each.

Mrs. Ray Durham, in her meditation, quoted Solomon and spoke of Pilate's wife Claudia, in her illustration of the power for good that women can exert.

Important among the announcements, is the offer of district scholarships available at this time. Mrs. J. L. Miller is the district chairman and made this announcement. Mrs. William Farley is the district chairman for conservation and Mrs. N. C. Morris of Eldorado is the district chairman for music. They may be called about these scholarships.

The new candidates were voted into club membership. Mrs. Paul Showalter and Mrs. Willard Wiley.

Mrs. Ralph Brown Sr. spoke of Mary Todd Lincoln as "The Statesman's Wife," and brought to light the newer findings in authentic letters and writings which prove her to have been the beloved wife of her statesman husband.

Mrs. Phil Durham reminded of that great humanist Jane Adams in her role of "A Social Worker." Mrs. Durham handled her subject with sympathy and knowledge.

Mrs. E. B. Webster spoke of two contemporary writers among the women of Illinois. Mrs. Mae Trovillion Smith and Miss Ann West, as "An Illinois Novelist." Mrs. Smith wrote "Elizabeth Abbott" and was a resident of Carbondale and a teacher at the college there for many years. She is a cousin of Mrs. J. A. Musgrave. Miss Ann West is a resident of Carverville and is a prolific writer of short stories which have been carried by the best magazines. In passing, Mrs. Webster mentioned our own Oma Barnes Lewis whose field was poetry. Following the program the meeting was adjourned.

Hostesses for this meeting were Mrs. Charles McKenzie and Mrs. Glynn McCormack.

Two Ministers But No Church Service

The home of the Rev. and Mrs. Harry Hancock, RFD 3, was filled with their children and friends on Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. James Reynolds and daughter, Julia Lee, were visiting from St. Louis, Mo., and as the afternoon wore on, more and more callers came although it was not known that the Reynolds' would be there.

Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Tison called, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hicks of the community west of Harrisburg, with their children, Garry and Dale, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Reynolds of Liberty, Mrs. James E. Williams of RFD 3, and daughter, Mary Ann, and Mary Strelch were present.

Mrs. James Reynolds, Mrs. Harold Reynolds and Mrs. Williams are daughters of the Hancocks and Mrs. Leroy Hicks is the sister of James Reynolds. It was suggested, since it was raining and there were two ministers in the home, that church be held there to a most receptive congregation. The ministers declined because of obligations to preach in neighboring churches.

The Christian Man

By EUGENE CARSON BLAKE, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

V. MAN AND HIS FAMILY

Then his mother and his brothers came to him, but they could not reach him for the crowd. And he was told, "Your mother and your brothers are standing outside, desiring to see you." But he said to them, "My mother and my brothers are those who hear the word of God and do it." Luke 8:19-21. RSV.

As we draw near to the end of the Lenten season and propose once more to contemplate the drama of Good Friday and Easter, one of the most moving of all the familiar scenes is that of Jesus' mother, Mary, standing at a distance watching her son dying upon the cross.

Even a man's imagination is able to enter a little into what she must have felt and suffered. One of the seven last words that our Lord spoke in his agony was for and to her. To the disciple he loved, he gave the care of his mother whom he loved.

But this understanding between Jesus and his mother was not one which had been automatically or easily achieved. From the moment that Jesus had heard his call to leave the family home at Nazareth, there began a contest between him and Mary which threatened for a time the normal and satisfying relationship of son and mother.

Years before, there was the incident of Jesus' being found at the temple by his anxious mother. She began to scold him in the fashion that mothers have. "Did you not know that I must be in my father's house?" were his earliest recorded words of independence.

As the years passed and he left home, Mary naturally became most concerned when she heard criticism of him and early sensed the dangers that threatened his life. Twice incidents are recorded which, taken alone and out of context, could appear to indicate no mutual understanding between them at all.

Perhaps the most crucial one is the time when word reached him through the crowd that his mother and brothers were outside and wished to see him. "My mother and my brothers are come to see me. My mother and my brothers are those that hear the word of God and do it." And he said it loud enough so that Mary might perhaps hear it from a distance.

The point that is made crystal clear in the Gospel is that a person's natural and normal love for his family can sometimes stand in the way of his Christian love and service of God. It is true that Jesus' teaching held up the family as the best picture of God's relationship to men—a father to his children. But it is also clear, as with other good things, that the good is always a threat to the best.

So Christ's word to us about our families says two things. Your family is the place where human love has its best opportunity to grow and to be taught. But don't ever put your family in the place of God. "My mother and my brothers are those that hear the word of God and do it." The Christian's family is never exclusive or ingrown. It is always best thought of as the foretaste of the wider relationship between God and all men and its glorious intimacies must never stand in the way of what God wants for all his children.

Morgan had not known that Mossman's outfit was in Pawnee City. A man had stopped at the office within an hour after Morgan had consented to become mayor. He wanted to look at some farm property and Morgan had gone out to show him a parcel of land, an 80-acre tract some five miles from Pawnee City.

Morgan later rode to Alex Turnboom's place. He had caught a distant glimpse of the wheat on the way out and he wanted to look at it close. He found the Swede, aided by two growing sons, building a fence on the river side of the farm.

"Confounded cowboy," swore Turnboom, as Morgan came up. "They don't watch their cows and they trample my wheat."

Morgan looked around the growing wheat field. As far as he could see the light green stalks, just beginning to turn brown, spread across the landscape.

"The cold weather didn't kill it," "I tell you it don't. I raise winter wheat in old country." The farmer broke off a stem of wheat, felt the husk of kernels between his thumb and forefinger. "Good, fat kernel. This ear's very fine loam. Raise 40 bushels wheat to acre—"

"Forty bushels an acre and wheat is selling for around 90 cents!"

"Go down when harvest come," Turnboom said. "We keep cows away two-three more weeks, we all right. Thrash wheat then and don't care about cows."

"Will this fence hold them off?" "This fence and maybe bullets," scowled Turnboom.

"No," Morgan said, "don't use your gun. You're a good farmer. Axel, and you know a lot about wheat. But guns are the business of the Texas men. They cut their eyeteeth on them. Go to the sheriff, if they get too bad. I'll talk to the cattlemen myself." He hesitated. "I'm running for mayor of Pawnee City next month."

The farmer's eyes lit up. "You, mayor? Is good. Very good. I vote for you."

"I don't know if you're eligible," laughed Morgan.

Artie Puffpuff struck the spark that started the fire that became the holocaust.

Puffpuff, having cadged his normal complement of drinks about the town, came out of the Longhorn Saloon and started wobbling across the street. The tail end of Brog's men were trotting by on their horses. Puffpuff, who seldom looked where he was walking, reeled into one of the broncs.

He was knocked aside, going down to a sitting position in the dust of the street.

"Why don't you look where you're going?"

The Texas man whose horse had knocked Puffpuff over swiveled in his saddle. "Watch that tongue, of yours, sodbuster."

Puffpuff bounced to his feet. "What'd you call me, you Johnny Reb? We licked you a few years ago and we can do it again. . . ."

The cowboy whirled his horse back. He probably had no other intention than to give Puffpuff, at close range, a blast of verbal invective, but the little squatter, in his usual drunken condition, yelled and lurched forward into the path of the onrushing bronc. The Texas man jerked his mount to such an abrupt stop that it reared up on its hind legs.

Its front legs came down—crushing the skull of Artie Puffpuff.

"You've done it, Crocker!" snarled Brog.

The man whose horse had killed Puffpuff drew his revolver and, in a blind rage, fired it at the window of Morgan's real estate office. The glass had scarcely crashed than the other Texas men had their guns out and were blazing away in all directions except at the harmless sky.

Chad Morgan heard the shooting as he neared Pawnee City. He guessed instantly that cowboys were trying to tree the town.

He was unarmed and knew that it was folly to ride blindly into the midst of indiscriminate shooting. He turned his horse to the left and started it down the alley behind the west row of business buildings. When he reached the rear of Buffington's store, he dismounted and tied his horse to a plow handle.

He crossed quickly to the rear of the store, whipped it open and entered.

Buffington and a clerk were at the front of the store, crouched and peering out through a broken window.

"What's the matter with the marshal?" Morgan asked.

Buffington whirled, saw Morgan and exclaimed in relief. "He's quit! Joe Jagger resigned his badge to Charlie Fesler." He suddenly wine-

ed. "Those are Pete Mossman's men out there."

"So they're back!"

"It's worse than that," Buffington hesitated. "They're after you."

"Well, I can't say that I haven't expected it," replied Morgan.

Buffington's face showed concern. "They're not drunk this time. They're fighting mad—and they've already killed Artie Puffpuff."

"Why'd they pick on that harmless old coot?"

"No one's going up to ask the cowboys," retorted Buffington.

The spiteful crack of a rifle came in from the street. A raucous voice shouted, "Come on out, Morgan, wherever you are!"

Cool, Clear Weather Follows Wake of Tornadoes in Southwest

By United Press
Cool but mostly clear weather overspread the Southeast Tuesday in the wake of a barrage of death dealing tornadoes, and a snow storm in the Northeast moved rapidly out to sea.

In Colorado, rescue workers dug through tons of snow in search of a cameraman for Walt Disney Studios who was buried, along with a companion, under a man-made avalanche.

A United Press count showed at least 19 persons killed in the latest flurry of spring weather violence. Four persons were killed in a tornado Monday at Roseboro, N. C., two were killed in a traffic wreck blamed on high winds and blinding rain near Raeford, N. C. Monday night, six persons died in Indiana, three in Illinois, and two each in Colorado and Ohio.

Monday's outbreak of twisters skipped through Dixie's "Tornado Alley" from northern Mississippi through Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and southeastern North Carolina.

The twisters, touched off by a massive cold air mass, left at least 100 persons injured and some 500 homeless. Damages were expected to reach more than one million dollars.

Among the hardest hit sections were Roseboro, N. C., where four persons were killed and about 25 persons injured, and Falkville, Ala., where at least 45 persons were injured.

The avalanche occurred at Berthoud Pass when the Colorado Highway Department fired a 75-millimeter howitzer shot into a sheer mountainside to loosen a dangerous snow accumulation.

Body is Recovered

The snow rumbled down out of control, burying cameraman John Hermann of Salt Lake City, Utah, who was taking shots of the slide, and Wayne S. Whitlock, 20, a truck driver for the Highway Department.

Whitlock's body was recovered Monday night and Hermann's body was dug out of the snow early Tuesday.

Stratton Proposes $2.2 Billion Budget

was 50 million dollars sliced from the 367 million requested by the Public Aid Commission for relief programs.

The governor recommended only 316 million for public aid — just about the same amount the program will cost for the current budget period.

Another major slash was made in state funds for construction and improvements at state colleges and universities, mental hospitals and the like.

More for Education

The budget recommendations called for only 33 million dollars, compared with 50 million for the current budget period. But Stratton has before the Legislature a 238-million-dollar bond issue proposal which would provide for needed construction without drawing on tax sources.

Helping support the state's share of the budget, Stratton said, was a "conservative" estimate of 536 million dollars income from the sales tax, 24 million from the use tax recently upheld by the Supreme Court and a surprisingly large surplus of 62 million dollars in the general revenue fund.

"The largest share by far" of the increases in state spending, Stratton said, would go for education purposes with a total increase of more than 61 million dollars.

This increase would include an additional 31 million dollars for state aid to common schools to maintain the aid formula at $200 per pupil per year.

The total school aid appropriation would be 225 million, including seven million which was returned unspent from the current appropriation.

88 Million for SIU

The education increases also included a proposal for a new state revolving fund of 10 million dollars from which impoverished school districts would borrow for classroom construction and thus solve their building needs, Stratton said, "without federal aid."

Also included in the overall education increase was a total of about 19 million dollars additional for the University of Illinois, 8 million for Southern Illinois University and 9 million for the four state teachers colleges.

Add 500 State Police

The public aid budget would include 180 million dollars in state money and 136 million in federal money. The program would get 141 million for old age assistance, 71 million for aid to dependent children, 6 million for blind assistance, 19 million for disability assistance and 51 million for general relief.

Stratton recommended the seven-million-dollar increase to add 500 men to the state police force to end the "haunting spectacle of thousands of our citizens lying dead or injured on our highways" in line with his safety program to "wipe the blood" from the roads.

Propose Change In Tax Rates For Schools

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — A bill aimed at forcing some school districts to collect more taxes and depend less on state aid was before the General Assembly Tuesday.

The bill, recommended by the School Problems Commission, would provide that tax rates be equalized by applying multipliers at the township rather than the county level.

The School Problems Commission has said some school districts are collecting an unfair share of state aid to schools because of too-low tax assessment rates.

The equalization multipliers now are applied to county assessments by the Revenue Department to raise the assessments to full value.

State aid to schools is distributed on a basis of making up the difference between a formula guaranteeing $200 per pupil per year and the amount produced by the local tax rate.

Sen. David Davis (R-Bloomington) introduced the bill Monday.

Also Monday, the Senate passed to the House a bill to provide stiffer penalties for persons who use telephones to make obscene calls.

A resolution was introduced in the Senate asking Congress to admit Hawaii and Alaska to statehood.

Also introduced was a bill that would require all automobiles in Illinois to be equipped with governors holding them to 70 miles an hour. Trucks would have to have 55 or 60 miles an hour governors depending on their weight.

Fined

Eugene Edgar Bridwell, arrested by city police over the weekend and charged with driving while intoxicated, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $100 and costs.

Centralia Police Chief Is Ousted For Failure to Suppress Gambling

CENTRALIA, Ill. (AP) — Centralia Police Chief L. C. Peters was out of a job Tuesday after the City Council voted 3-2 for his dismissal.

Peters, who had served two years under the present city administration, was ousted Monday night for allegedly failing to suppress open gambling here.

More than 300 residents packed the council chamber and loudly "booed" when Peters' dismissal was announced.

As he handed in his badge, Peters said, "If I have anything to say in the next day or so, I'll say it to the press, not the council."

Peters, who staged a one-man raid on the Moose lodge here Sunday night when rumors of his possible ouster were made known, said that he "couldn't clean out 'tipboards' and slot machines in clubs that have existed for 40 years."

Peters said he held no grudge against any of the council members.

Named as his successor was former Justice of the Peace J. O. Wright, 73.

Wright said he contemplated no change in the 15-man police force and was non-committal with reference to gambling.

Wright told the council that he was too old for the job.
"It's a young man's job, but I'll do my best," said Wright.

Clint Hartung Memory Stops New York Giants' Plunge on Shortstop Rodgers

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—Garry Schumacher is back in the Giants' offices on West 42nd Street, ready to promote the daylight out of Andre Rodgers, the big, timid youngster who is to open the season at shortstop.

Rodgers, to Garry's eye, has all the potential to bring people to the Polo Grounds—a matter which is important to the New York National League franchise. Performance wise, he hits the long ball, has a shotgun arm and brings oohs and aahs from bystanders.

And Rodgers has a colorful back ground. He was a cricket player in the West Indies until a couple of years ago, which is a natural for typewriter mechanics around town.

Promotional Director Schumacher is ready. He has the colorful descriptions ("He hits the ball out of the arena, nine miles, right now" and the gags ("He plays shortstop with a British accent.")).

But there is, to Garry's mind, a basic drawback to the tub-thumping for Rodgers. That would be, of course, the Clint Hartung episode of 1947.

IN DEC. OF 1946, Garry, at the major league meetings in Los Angeles, received a letter from an Army major who had coached Hartung, service returnee who was to report to the Giants' Phoenix camp.

"The fella starts going into the things Hartung had done," Garry recalls. "Home runs, no-hitters, stealing bases. The works. But he closed it with the line that killed me: 'He also threw numerous runners out at the plate.'"

"That did it. I had the letter mimeographed and distributed to all the newspapermen there. They picked it up wholesale. Overnight, Hartung is a big thing. It got so bad Tom Meany comes up with the crack, 'Hartung shouldn't report to Phoenix. He should go right to Cooperstown.'"

We get to Phoenix and everybody is watching him. First time up, he belts one, it hits the top of the fence—and goes over. 'Luck, luck, luck,' I'm saying to myself. They started writing him up as if he were a new Babe Ruth. An ex-serviceman and all that. It was terrific."

BUT SOMEWHERE ON the way to New York that spring, a sinking feeling hit Schumacher. The curves were starting to snap by now. And Hartung was not hitting them any place, much less over the fence.

"I don't want that again," Garry says, "so we're going to let Mr. Rodgers do it on the field first."

Rodgers is making a big jump. This is only his third year in organized baseball. He has a .387 at St. Cloud in Class C ball as top credentials. Last year, he batted .300 at Dallas until hit by a pitch. Rodgers was a bit gun-shy the rest of the way and finished with .270. But a big season in the Dominican Republic this past winter indicated he was ready again.

"He makes two throws at Phoenix," Garry says, "that has to make you wonder. Both were on Billy Gardner of Baltimore. The kid can run and he hits two shots to deep short. Both labeled hits. Rodgers gets both of 'em. Then he throws Gardner out. Boom! Just like that. You had to whistle when you see him throw."

"HE HITS A BALL OFF Connie Johnson of Baltimore. It took off from sight. Willie Mays is supposed to be the only guy we got who hits like that. He pulls the ball good, which is nice for our left field. But he sprays them, too. 'Of course, you don't go overboard,' Schumacher went on, "because he might need this year bad. Some day, he'll be a big guy. But it could take time. He was striking out a little before I came home and some of the other scouts and managers were making reservations about him for this year."

"But he'll make it. And he's going to do it on the field, too. We don't have any room for press clipping guys this year. We need 'em on the field. If this fella makes it, the summer isn't a long one after all."

Goetz is Granted Sick Leave as National Umpire

CINCINNATI — Veteran Umpire Larry Goetz was given a sick leave by the National League Tuesday and the league also announced the addition of former catchers Bill Baker and Vinnie Smith to the umpiring staff.

The 57-year-old Goetz, an N. L. umpire since 1936, has not umpired any exhibition games this spring because of a nervous condition and has been advised by his doctor to take an extended rest from baseball.

Baker, who officiated last year in the American Assn., and Smith, from the staff of the Pacific Coast League, both have been umpiring major league exhibitions this spring on a trial basis. Their addition brings the N. L. umpiring staff to 16 men.

Baker, from Paw Creek, N. C., was a catcher for Cincinnati in 1940 and '41, Pittsburgh from 1941 through 1946, and St. Louis in 1948 and '49.

Smith, of Richmond, Va., was a catcher with Pittsburgh in 1941 and 1946. He began umpiring in the California League in 1954 and switched to the Pacific Coast League in 1955 and '56.

Looking at Sports

BY BILL MELTON

The Galatia grade school students will stage a physical education show Friday night in the school gymnasium.

The program, including pupils from all eight grades, both boys and girls, will start at 7 p. m. and everyone is invited. There will be no admission charge.

Frank Gunter, boys' physical education instructor, states there will be demonstrations of all types of PE work accomplished during the school term.

There will be rhythm exercises by the younger pupils, all kinds of "walks" such as the duck, dog, bear, etc. — forward rolls, head stands, in fact everything included in elementary school tumbling programs. And for the climax, pyramids will be built.

Girls' PE instructor is Thelma Boyinet.

For years the Mineral Area track and field meet at Hurst Bush has been the earliest of the big meets in southern Illinois.

The 1957 edition is scheduled for Saturday.

Unless there is a quick change in the weather, giving the tracksters a chance to run out of doors, this year's meet will probably come up with some of the poorest performances in history.

The wet, cold weather to date has kept most track performers indoors. Running in the gym is better than no practice at all, but certainly a poor substitute for the cinder track when preparing for a big meet.

Bob Colborn has resigned as athletic director and head football coach at Murphysboro to accept a position on the coaching staff at Kankakee where he will be head basketball coach and probably assist in track.

Colborn, a native of Flora and graduate of SIU, has coached at Carbondale and was at West Frankfort three years before going to Murphysboro at the start of the present school term.

The Illinois University baseball team, rained out of its season opener at Southern Illinois University Saturday, will try to play next Friday at home, then take a swing through the south, playing 11 games in six days and nights.

Braves Beat Dodgers to Maintain Grapefruit Lead; White Sox Blank Cardinals

By United Press
Milwaukee is out in front for the Grapefruit Circuit championship, a title that's just a lot of fruit juice to manager Fred Haney, who would rather see his men save something for September.

The Braves couldn't beat Brooklyn last fall when it really counted, but they clinched their spring series with the Dodgers by defeating them, 8-5, at Oklahoma City, Okla., Monday.

The Braves now have taken six out of eight games from Brooklyn this spring and they lead all major league clubs with an exhibition record of 18 victories and eight defeats.

Five in First

The Braves hopped on Dodger starter Roger Craig for five runs in the first inning and then clinched the contest with three more off southpaw Ken Lehman in the fifth. Ray Crone started for the Braves, allowed two runs on six hits in six and one-third innings and then gave way to Bob Trowbridge.

Left-hander Jack Harshman gave White Sox manager Al Lopez something to smile about when he hurled seven scoreless innings in a 3-0 victory over the Cardinals at Charlotte, N. C.

Veteran Dixie Howell held St. Louis in check over the last two frames. Rookie Jim Landis of the White Sox homered off loser Herman Wehmeier.

Burly Bob Nieman hasn't been hitting particularly well this spring, but he snapped out of it in Dallas, Tex., to drive in five runs and lead the Orioles to a 6-4 decision over the Cubs. Nieman hit a homer with two on, a single and two sacrifice flies.

Purkey "Gopher" Victim

The Red Sox snapped a seven-game losing streak with an 8-7 triumph over the Pirates in 10 innings at Fort Myers, Fla. Milt Bolling's homer off Bob Purkey in the 10th decided the game. Jackie Jensen and Jim Piersall also homered for Boston while Danny Kravitz connected for Pittsburgh.

Willie Jones' two-run homer off Jack Crimian in the seventh inning powered the Phillies to a 6-5 decision over the Tigers at Clearwater, Fla. Ed Bouchee also homered for the Phils.

Rookie pitcher Curt Barclay and outfielder Dusty Rhodes combined to lead the Giants to a 3-1 victory over the Indians in a game that was halted by a thunderstorm after five and one-half innings. Barclay limited the Indians to three hits, including a homer by Bobby Avila, while Rhodes' two-run homer off Bob Lemon in the fourth was the decisive blow.

High winds caused the postponement of a scheduled game between Cincinnati and Washington at Memphis, Tenn.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
Written for NEA Service

During this Lenten period we seem to turn our thoughts to fundamentals of religion. We find ourselves studying the teachings of Jesus which He gave to His followers during His last days on earth.

Faith is one of the principal foundation stones on which He built His steps to the Kingdom of God. Faith is so simple that we often overlook its importance.

Faith is our belief in things not seen, not understood, and not always provable in material terms.

Yet faith makes it possible for us to accomplish much of our success in things great and small. Without faith in God's power, in

Yet faith makes it possible for the consistency of nature, and in the reliability of man's utilization of God's gifts, we have only fear, and insecurity.

With faith we overcome fear and loneliness and failure.
